SEALED INDICTMENT

17 Cr.

17 CRIM 048

X

COUNT ONE
(Computer Hacking Conspiracy)

The Grand Jury charges:

Background

1. Beginning at least in or about June 2012, up to and including in or about January 2015, STANISLAV VITALIYEVICH LISOV, a/k/a "Black," a/k/a "Blackf," the defendant, worked with co-conspirators to deploy and use a type of malicious software, or malware, known as NeverQuest ("NeverQuest"), which was designed to infect the computers of unwitting victims and, among other things, steal their login information for financial institution accounts. LISOV and his co-conspirators then used that information to steal money from those victims through various means, including wire transfers, ATM withdrawals, and purchases of expensive goods via the Internet.

2. STANISLAV VITALIYEVICH LISOV, a/k/a "Black," a/k/a "Blackf," the defendant, was responsible for key aspects of the creation and administration of a network of victim computers, or botnet, that was infected with NeverQuest. Among other things, LISOV maintained infrastructure for this criminal enterprise, including by renting and paying for computer servers used to manage the botnet that had been compromised by NeverQuest. Those computer servers contained lists of millions of stolen login credentials, including user names, passwords, and security questions and answers, for user accounts on banking and financial websites. LISOV had administrative-level access to those computer servers.

3. STANISLAV VITALIYEVICH LISOV, a/k/a "Black," a/k/a "Blackf," the defendant, also personally harvested login information from unwitting victims of the NeverQuest malware, including user names, passwords, and security questions and answers. In addition, LISOV engaged in numerous communications with co-conspirators regarding trafficking in stolen login information and personally identifying information of victims, as well as using stolen login information to steal money from victims' bank accounts.

4. NeverQuest has been responsible for millions of dollars worth of attempts to transfer money out of victims' financial institution accounts, many of which were successful.
